B. Reading Comprehension:

Taiwanese athlete Tommy Chen won this year's 4-Deserts Race Series, one of the world's most punishing tests of endurance, after finishing as runner-up in The Last Desert Antarctica Ultramarathon. Chen's second place was enough to hand him total victory in the competition, which comprises four 250-km ultramarathons — the Atacama Crossing in Chile, the Gobi March in mainland China, the Sahara Race in Northern Africa, and the Last Desert in the frozen southern continent. He also became the first Taiwanese runner to claim the 4-Deserts Grand Slam title by completing all of the events in a single calendar year.

The ultramarathoner was leading this year's series going into the final stage in Antarctica, having finished second in the Sahara Race in May, fifth in the Gobi March in June and first in the Atacama contest in October. He took the championship by battling through strong blizzards and minus 20-degree temperatures across the week long, six-stage contest in one of the world's most unforgiving environments.

"This Antarctic race is the hardest terrain I have ever run in. It wasn't just an endurance challenge, but rather, a difficult test of willpower," Chen wrote in a Facebook post. Aside from painful foot injuries, shortness of breath and concerns about frostbite (凍傷), the athlete said that he felt extreme pressure over his promise to secure the title, getting little sleep and suffering from deep fear about the state of his equipment.

Chen noted in the post that he roared and ran toward the finish line the moment it came into view. Upon completing the race, Chen said he fell to his knees and let out a victory cry before breaking down in tears. "This whole year, all of the stress and suffering, is finally over," he wrote. "The important thing in life is not the triumph but the struggle."

- () (47) What is the right order of Chen's races in the 4-Deserts Race Series? (A) Gobi → Sahara → Antarctica → Atacama. (B) Sahara → Gobi → Atacama → Antarctica. (C) Antarctica → Sahara → Gobi → Atacama. (D) Atacama → Antarctica → Sahara → Gobi.
- () (48) What did Chen not suffer from during the Antarctic race? (A) Sunburn. (B) Frostbite. (C) Foot injuries. (D) Low temperatures.
- () (49) Which of the following is closest in meaning to terrain in Paragraph 3? (A) An area of land. (B) A difficult challenge. (C) A dangerous country. (D) A long-distance race.
- () (50) According to Chen's view of the race, which of the following is NOT correct? (A) The state of equipment plays an important role in the race. (B) The challenges include not only endurance but also willpower. (C) The struggle during the race is more important than the victory. (D) The pressure to secure the title was not as great as what he had thought.
- () (51) What did Chen say about Antarctica? (A) He doesn't plan to ever travel there again. (B) It is his favorite place in the world to run in. (C) It is the toughest place he has ever raced in. (D) He feels less pressure when he runs there.
