(Q46-50)

Test anxiety is very common in students before a test or while they are taking a test. It can lead to physical problems like an upset stomach, or emotional problems like getting frustrated easily. Anxiety can make it harder to concentrate and easier to make mistakes. However, it also has a good side: it makes you feel keyed up and therefore perform better.

There are a few things you can do to prevent anxiety from becoming a problem. Organize the material you are studying and make sure you have digested all of it. Start studying early so you don't have to cram. When taking the test, don't waste too much time trying to answer difficult questions. If other people start handing in the test early, keep in mind that there is no reward for being first to finish. Try to relax if you start feeling tense.

Don't worry if you feel a little anxiety. Being too calm is actually as bad as being too anxious. If you are totally calm you won't work hard enough to do well. Remember that anxiety can be used to help you do better. Above all, remember to celebrate after a test — you have just overcome a huge obstacle and you should reward yourself!

46. () Which of the following statements is NOT true?
(A) Test anxiety could lead to problems in one's body or emotions.
(B) Anxiety makes students easier to make mistakes during test.
(C) Anxiety related to test-taking is rare among students.
(D) A little anxiety makes students feel alert and do better as a result.
47. () How can a bit of anxiety help you?
(A) It makes you totally relaxed.
(B) It makes you a little nervous and thus work harder.
(C) It makes you very calm and comfortable.
(D) It makes you wonder the meaning of the emotional test.
48. () Which of the following things can you do to keep anxiety under control?
(A) Cramming is necessary. Do it the night before the test.
(B) Arrange what you're studying well and manage to digest it.
(C) Try to answer each question by order and don't skip.
(D) Keep in mind that you have to be the first to hand in the test paper.
49. () Which of the following statements is true?
(A) Being too calm is actually no better than being too anxious.
(B) If you are completely calm, you will do better on a test.
(C) It's impossible that anxiety is able to help you do well.
(D) You will actually be rewarded if you hand in test paper first.
50. () According to the passage, what should you do after a test?
(A) Find out whether you answered the test questions correctly.
(B) Go to a library and do more research on the subject.
(C) Try to ask the difficult questions you saw on the test to your teacher.
(D) Attend a party or meet with friends and have some fun.
