五、閱讀測驗 每題 2 分，共 10 分

When I was a child, my parents started a new business. They didn't have much time to take care of my sister, my brother, and me. They were busy working and spent a lot of time in other countries. Whenever they were away, they sent us to our grandfather's house.

Grandpa was a fruit farmer who lived on the side of a mountain. We loved staying at his home because the air was so fresh and the scenery so beautiful. There was no air or noise pollution. We could smell the flowers and the grass when we breathed. When we got up in the morning, we could hear the birds and insects all around.

There was a yard in front of Grandpa's house. We played games and ran around the yard. There were also many fruit trees and a small river not far away. You could see fish and tiny shrimps in the clear mountain water. We liked to take our shoes and socks off and play in the cool river.

We made up games to play whenever we were at Grandpa's house. I remember one time we had recently seen a movie about Robin Hood. He was a hero who robbed the rich and helped the poor. We acted in our own Robin Hood story, and I played Robin, of course. That is one of the best among hundreds of happy memories of my childhood.
